The Collective Strength of 620,000 Workers Nationwide

At the smallest level, Saitama Doken, the Saitama Construction Workers' Union, consists of groups of about 20 people/households located in residential areas, and individual members belong directly to one of these groups. On a larger level, Saitama Doken generally has chapters for each city and town. Chapters consist of branches, and branches consist of groups. Members of Saitama Doken are united not only with one another, but also with a total of 620,000 construction workers nationwide through the National Federation of Construction Workers' Unions. Together, we demonstrate incredible strength, working together with other local unions and the Saitama Labor Union Federation to help make life better for workers.

Building an Industry Worth Working In

What makes work feel worthwhile? Safe work sites, and wages and piece rates able to support a comfortable lifestyle, are major factors. At Saitama Doken, we engage in bargaining with large companies, perform work site examinations, and hold talks with local government bodies, local businesses, and industries, with the goal of improving workers' wages, piece rates, and labor conditions.

Building a Nation That Respects the Constitution

Article 25 of the Japanese constitution guarantees "the right to maintain the minimum standards of wholesome and cultured living." We use our voice to oppose misgovernment that threatens this right: to do so, we engage in signature collection campaigns, petitions and requests to members of the Diet, proposals to other groups, and publicity work and rallies in order to more broadly share public opinion from our region.

The Collective Strength to Improve Work Sites and Everyday Life

Members' Collective Strength to Improve Wages, Piece Rates, and Labor Conditions for All

Saitama Doken is Saitama's largest union.

Our large number of members gives all of us tremendous strength.

Saitama Doken uses this strength for various efforts to help make life better, at work and at home, for our fellow construction workers.

The Collective Strength to Improve Life for Our Fellow Construction Workers

Building Safe, Secure Communities

In addition to working to improve the local living environment using a professional point of view, such as through safety checks (such as whether bicycle lanes are wide enough), house inspection services, and volunteering to install metal fittings to prevent furniture from falling over, we also engage in efforts to bring work to fellow construction workers by creating and expanding systems such as a home renovation subsidy system, a small-scale construction registration system, and an earthquake-proofing subsidy system.

Building a Peaceful Future

Article 9 of the Japanese constitution, Renunciation of War, serves as the foundation for our lives. In order to protect this foundation, we work hand-in-hand with grassroots efforts by local individuals and organizations with the goal of preserving peace. We also engage in efforts to reduce the use of nuclear power and bring about a transition to renewable energy sources.

Saitama Doken Is the Counselor's Office for Our Fellow Workers in the Construction Industry.

Improving, and Offering Support for, Fellow Workers' Labor Conditions

Consistent Efforts to Improve Wages and Work Conditions

Bargaining with Large Companies

Each spring and autumn, Saitama Doken engages in negotiations with large general contractors like Shimizu Corporation, Kajima Corporation, Taisei Corporation, Obayashi Corporation, and Takenaka Corporation, as well as large housing companies like Daiwa House Industry Co., Ltd. and Sekisui House, Ltd. — nearly 40 companies in all — to request work site improvements and bring them to life. These include the repayment of parking fees collected at work sites, promises of certificate stamps for construction industry retirement mutual aid (see p. 10) to be provided even for private construction work, an increase in the number of toilets available, the separation of smoking and non-smoking areas, and other concrete improvements that we have earned for construction workers.

Promotion of the Local Construction Industry

Saitama Doken places a high priority on the regional development of the construction industry, in order to help maintain social infrastructure and install disaster control measures, as well as to ensure job security. We work on efforts to ensure the sustainability of the construction industry, sharing awareness of problems with local companies, such as bidding systems and fair deals.

In addition, if the union and the companies come to an agreement, we establish partnership contracts on topics such as workplace health and safety, adoption of construction industry retirement mutual aid, resolution of nonpayment, and more, as part of our efforts to advance teamwork and cooperation, and protect construction workers' work conditions.

Genmai-kun Line Account

Genmai-kun is a monitoring system that helps members continuously share information with the union about their own situations at work sites. This information will be used to help improve work site environments, and as reference material for requesting improvements from work sites' original contractors during the bargaining with large companies held twice each year. We hope you'll share information from your work sites, too.

Mascot: Genmai-kun

Examples of Past Improvements

- ① More toilets, drinking water, and rest areas
- ② Improvements to COVID-19 precautions
- ③ Demands to extend construction period
- ④ Ensuring safe walkways
- ⑤ Addressing abuse of authority ...and more!

Saitama Doken works to protect taxpayers' rights.

Consumption Tax Counseling

If your annual sales exceed ¥10 million, you must file a consumption tax return two years later. If your annual sales are up to ¥50 million, you may choose simple taxation, but if your annual sales exceed ¥50 million, you must use standard taxation.

You can use Saitama Doken's professional network for counseling on consumption tax.

When there's a problem...

We all worry about not being able to work if we get sick or have to go to the hospital. Saitama Doken National Health Insurance provides a number of systems to help out when things get tough, as a way to provide members with peace of mind.

1 If You Have Expensive Medical Costs

① Partial Reimbursement System

1. Reimbursement of hospitalization and other expenses exceeding ¥17,500 per month paid out-of-pocket by the individual (portion not covered by insurance).
2. Members are reimbursed for hospitalization and doctor visits. Members' family members are reimbursed for hospitalizations only.
 - * Family members become eligible starting in the seventh month of union membership.
 - * Some circumstances, such as work accidents or traffic accidents, may not be covered.

② Out-of-Pocket Expense Reduction System (Eligibility Certificate for Ceiling-Amount Application)

1. The maximum out-of-pocket amount to be paid is reduced for medical expenses exceeding a certain amount.
2. Also applies for high-cost doctor visits that do not involve hospitalization.
 - * If you need certification for the maximum amount, you must request it through the National Health Insurance Union. (Application forms are available to download from the website.)
 - o For example, for medical expenses costing ¥1,000,000 total, the ¥300,000 to be covered by the patient is reduced to about ¥90,000, for a reduction of about ¥210,000. (Category "U" (general))

2 Childbirth and Childcare Assistance

① Childbirth Lump-Sum Allowance

¥500,000/Child (¥420,000/child for births through March 31, 2023)

1. Payment is handled as a direct bank transfer to the hospital.
2. Childbirth fees paid to the hospital will be reduced by the amount of the childbirth lump-sum allowance (minus ¥12,000 for births that are not eligible for the obstetric medical care compensation system).

② Maternity Benefits

1. Paid when a union member gives birth (at least six months after enrolling in the union).
2. Payments for 98 days (or 154 in the event of multiple births).
3. Per-day payment amounts are set in accordance with home remedy daily rates for the sickness category of the accident and sickness allowance. There is also a fixed payment of ¥68,000 on top of this (or ¥50,000 for births on or before May 31, 2022).
 - o For example, if a type-4 union member gives birth, the total payment is ¥362,000 (for births on or after June 1, 2022): ¥3,000/day × 98 days + fixed ¥68,000

③ Childcare Support Money

- For Female Union Members:
1. Paid to individuals eligible for maternity benefits, when transitioning from maternity leave to temporary absence from work due to childcare.
 2. ¥23,000 per month for a maximum of ten months (or ¥17,000 per month for births on or before May 31, 2022).
- For Male Union Members (Exempted Members) (Starting April 2023)
1. Paid when a member has a temporary absence from work due to childcare, for 14 days or more, to care for a child younger than one year old.

3 Temporary Absence from Work Due to Sickness or Injury

o Accident and Sickness Allowance for up to 180 Days

1. Paid when a member is unable to work due to sickness, injury, etc.
2. Payments for up to 180 days each, in the sickness category and the injuries/specified accidents & sicknesses category.
3. Single-day payment amounts will vary based on sickness/injury and treatment conditions, as well as insurance premium category.
 - * Some circumstances, such as work accidents or traffic accidents, cannot be covered.
 - o For example, if a type-3 union member is hospitalized for 30 days due to an illness, the total payment is ¥150,000: ¥5,000/day × 30 days (see p. 14 for table of categories)

○ Compensation and Benefits So You Don't Have to Worry about Temporary Absence from Work or On-Site Injuries

Labor Insurance

When employers hire laborers, they are required to enroll them in labor insurance (workers' accident compensation insurance and employment insurance). All chapters of Saitama Doken feature labor insurance administration associations authorized by the Minister of Health, Labour, and Welfare. Enrollment procedures are handled at the chapter office.

Coverage through Workers' Accident Compensation Insurance

Full Coverage of Medical Expenses

Workers' accident compensation insurance entitles covered individuals to free treatment for any injuries or sicknesses caused by work.

Compensation Benefits Provided for Temporary Absence from Work

In the event that a laborer is temporarily absent from work, losing income, due to medical treatment for a work accident, workers' accident compensation insurance will pay compensation benefits for the temporary absence from work, starting on the fourth day of the temporary absence from work. (Compensation for the first three days of this temporary absence from work is to be paid by the employer.)

Employment Insurance

Lifestyle Security for Unemployment and Long-Term Leave

Employment insurance helps make up for lost income during the period between leaving a job and finding employment once again, for lifestyle expenses such as child-raising or nursing. Employment insurance also subsidizes a portion of the expenses for vocational training, and reimburses travel costs and other costs incurred in hunting for a new job once a new job has been found.

Enrolling in Employment Insurance

Enrollment in employment insurance for laborers is compulsory in the following circumstances:

- When the laborer is expected to work at least 20 hours per week, for at least 31 days' employment.

Note: Even when the individual being employed is 65 or older, employment insurance procedures are still necessary.

Pensions & Lump-Sum Payments for Disabilities

In the event that a workplace accident leaves a laborer with a disability, depending on the severity of the disability, the laborer is entitled to benefits in the form of either a pension (rank 1–7) or a lump-sum payment (rank 8–14).

Compensation to the Bereaved Family in the Event of Death

Depending on the number and ages of the bereaved family members, benefits such as 153–245 days' worth of pension will be paid. Support payments will also be provided for funeral expenses.

The Original Contractor's Workers' Accident Compensation Applies at Construction Work Sites

Ordinarily, when laborers are injured during work, the workers' accident compensation insurance of the laborer's employer will apply. However, in the construction industry and other cases where there is a mixture of several subcontractors, the workers' accident compensation insurance of the original contractor will apply.

Note that, for self-employed workers and owners of small- or medium-sized companies, the workers' accident compensation insurance of the original contractor will not apply; it is necessary to enroll in special enrollment for workers' accident compensation insurance.

Employment Injuries

For workers' accident compensation insurance purposes, "employment injuries" refers to any injury, sickness, disability, or death that occurs during a laborer's work. In order to qualify as an employment injury, it must be considered to have been both work-related and work-caused.

Work-related: Related to the performance of work based on the labor contract

Work-caused: Injury or sickness occurred due to an accident caused by work

(For injuries to laborers working for subcontractors at construction work sites, the original contractor's workers' accident compensation insurance will apply.)

○ You Can Enroll through the Union

Special Enrollment in Workers' Accident Compensation Insurance

Workers' Accident Compensation Insurance for Employers

With Special Enrollment, Even Employers Can Receive Compensation

Ordinarily, workers' accident compensation insurance does not apply for employers, nor employers' family members living with the employer, nor corporate executives. For an employer to receive compensation through workers' accident compensation insurance, it is necessary to apply for employers' special enrollment through the union. We recommend enrollment for construction industry employers who spend time at work sites.

Medical expenses are 100% covered, and compensation for temporary absence from work is roughly 80% of the basic daily benefit amount (see table to the right).

Workers' Accident Compensation Insurance for Self-Employed Workers

Much like for employers, we also strongly recommend that self-employed workers who spend time at work sites enroll in workers' accident compensation insurance.

Medical expenses are 100% covered, and compensation for temporary absence from work is roughly 80% of the basic daily benefit amount (see table to the right).

In order to receive compensation for work site injuries, it is necessary to perform special enrollment procedures through the union.

How to calculate labor insurance premiums (general rule):

Labor insurance premiums = (total wages × workers' accident compensation insurance rate) + (total wages × employment insurance rate)

• For special enrollment, special enrollment insurance premiums will be added.

How to calculate workers' accident compensation insurance premiums (special calculations for construction projects):

Original contractor work (before taxes) × labor cost rate × insurance rate = estimated workers' accident compensation insurance premiums

For example, if the estimated construction cost (before tax) for the original contractor is ¥10,000,000: ¥10,000,000 × 23/100 × 9.5/1,000 = ¥21,850

Preparing for Earthquakes

Doken Earthquake Mutual Aid

A System to Help Fellow Construction Workers, Created Based on Members' Requests

Earthquakes cause damage across a large area, and the damage they cause can be extensive. Japan famously experiences many earthquakes, and there's no way to tell when the next massive earthquake like Great East Japan Earthquake or Kumamoto Earthquake might come. We recommend enrolling in this mutual aid system as a way to prepare for the worst, just in case.

Property Enrollment Eligibility

The buildings (houses) that members live in, as well as their household belongings, are eligible for coverage. Note that enrollment in earthquake mutual aid requires also enrolling in fire mutual aid — it is not possible to enroll in only earthquake mutual aid.

Premiums

Structure of Residence	Annual Premiums (Per Unit)	Insurance Amount
Wood, etc.	¥165 (Both residence and household belongings)	¥50,000
Reinforced Concrete	¥100 (Both residence and household belongings)	¥50,000

Note: When enrolling in earthquake mutual aid midway through a fire mutual aid contract, earthquake insurance premiums will be prorated for the number of months remaining on the contract.

Enrollment

Enrollment procedures are handled at a union chapter office, like fire mutual aid enrollment. We recommend enrolling in both fire and earthquake mutual aid, as protection against the unexpected. The mutual aid contract comes into effect on the first day of the following month after the premiums are paid to the chapter office. Additionally, bank account registration is required in order to enroll in earthquake mutual aid.

Enrollment Criteria

The maximum number of units for earthquake mutual aid enrollment is 200 units for residences and 40 units for household belongings. However, the number of units for earthquake mutual aid may not exceed the number of contracted units for each under the basic contract for fire mutual aid.

Security through Disaster Victim Certification

We offer security against damage caused by earthquakes or volcanic eruptions, or fires, burial, or being washed away caused by tsunamis caused by earthquakes or volcanic eruptions. The extent of damage is determined based on disaster victim certification issued by the local government; benefits are paid depending on which of the categories applies. We also offer a provisional benefit payment system, for before official disaster victim certification is issued.

If, by chance, a major earthquake should cause serious damage, payments will be made based on the number of units established in the contract.

Payment Category	Mutual Aid per Unit	Security Limit (Maximum No. of Units)
		Residence (200 Units)	Household Belongings (40 Units)	Total (240 Units)
Completely destroyed	¥50,000	¥10,000,000	¥2,000,000	¥12,000,000
Severely damaged	¥25,000	¥5,000,000	¥1,000,000	¥6,000,000
Partially/moderately damaged	¥15,000	¥3,000,000	¥600,000	¥3,600,000
Minor damage/semi-partially damaged	¥1,500	¥300,000	¥60,000	¥360,000

The Best Way to Keep Up on the Latest from the Saitama Doken Mutual Aid Society

Tasukeai Tsushin

This magazine is sent to all union members, and features news about our mutual aid work and updates from the union and the Technical Training Center, as well as information about registered local businesses and other partner facilities that accept the Doken Card, to help improve members' work and home lives!

Saitama Doken's Union Activities

Achieving Demands through Everyone's Unified Strength

Union Members...

1. Participate in group meetings
2. Pay union dues monthly at group meetings
3. Strengthen the union

Group Meetings Offer Plenty of Opportunities to Improve Our Work and Home Lives

When you join the union, you will belong to your local branch and group, based on where you live. Each month, union members meet up for a group meeting, and pay their union dues. At these group meetings, we work to collect signatures for efforts to help develop the construction industry and improve our work and home lives, share helpful union information with one another, and work to make our demands a reality. These group meetings also serve as an opportunity to develop connections with local colleagues in the construction industry.

Every One of Us Matters

Every single member of the union is important. As a union, we take a unified position on shared demands, talk as a group, participate in activities decided on by everyone, and work to achieve these demands. We do not discriminate based on ideology, principles, religion, or type of work. Members are free to support any political party and engage in any political activities they wish to. We offer counseling to any member on any topic, whether work-related or not; feel free to take advantage of it.

Getting Together with Other Union Members at Group Meetings

Building Valuable Connections with Union Member Colleagues

Expanding Work Networks

Building Work Networks at Networking Events

Practical Business Seminars and Business Card Exchange Events

Saitama Doken holds business seminars and educational events targeting employers. We also hold popular business card exchanges and work networking events based on chapters and regions, where union members can build work connections with one another. At group meetings, we share information about these efforts with members. We hope you'll take part in our group meetings and expand your network of colleagues.

Youth Groups

Making Friends and Building Connections with Other Young Members

If you feel that there isn't anyone your own age to talk to at work sites, that you want to acquire qualifications and be more valuable at work, or that you want to build a network of colleagues for when you become an independent employer in the future, then our youth groups are perfect for you! Our youth groups plan their own events, whether sports get-togethers like skiing, snowboarding, and futsal, big grilling events, or running food stalls at local festivals, with the goal of being fun for everyone. They also work to encourage interaction with other groups, both nationwide and within the prefecture, through efforts like learning activities. Planning and running events is a great way to meet new people and build stronger bonds with one another — we hope you'll join us! (Youth group dues ¥200/month.)
